

CHAPEL HART

Chapel Hart is a trio of cousins. Sisters Danica and Devynn Hart, along with 1st cousin Trea Swindle grew up in a small community called Hart's Chapel, Mississippi. The group started out as a duo while playing in New Orleans.

They took a couple years to try and acclimate to the New Orleans music scene, but they knew that wasn't what was in their heart to do. When Devynn joined Trea and Danica, the three decided to go back to what they really loved, which was country music.

Chapel Hart is in the midst of their radio tour for "Jesus & Alcohol," and are working on finishing their second album following their successful first release, "Out the Mud." Chapel Hart, in the midst of their radio tour for "Jesus & Alcohol," are working on their second album following their successful first release

"Out The Mud." The tour began in south Louisiana and will end in Nashville. Those fortunate enough to get to see them live will be treated to an evening of heart and personality where they feel like they are sitting at home in their living room, hanging out with their best friends and listening to some great country music.

"As expressed by the girls of Chapel Hart, "Our music is a combination of influences from each of our backgrounds, delivered from our hearts."
