She recorded her first Billboard single, 'Lady, Lady' at the age of 15. It caught the attention of the newly formed CMT network. They reached out to Lang requesting her to film a video of 'Lady, Lady' at their expense, and it subsequently became one of the first videos played on the new network.

Bringing her rare distinguished vocal style to the finals of 'Star Search', she

While enduring cancer, Lang turned to humor in order to help lift her spirits and show the world that laughter is the best medicine. She created the comedic character named, XOXO who knew no limits or boundaries when it came to chasing her dreams. She packed her trailer and moved to Nashville, parking it about a mile from the Grand Ole Opry so she would always be close in case the Opry would ever need her.
